The opinions (if any) expressed herein, are not necessarily those of The Campbell Press.

In a letter to the editor, last night's News, a "Roosevelt Democrat" took the paper to task for its alleged systematic attacks on the President. Referring to the Chief Executive as—I believe—"the greatest man of all time," the author gave the distinct impression that he believed there is no other man quite so capable of the presidential job as is Franklin D.

On the first count, the indignant subscriber has little cause for alarm. I read the paper myself, and I have failed to note anything in the way of systematic persecution of the President; but if such is the case, the paper is strictly within its rights if it honestly believes the Roosevelt star is on the wane. A newspaper that fails to attempt the moulding of public opinion is failing in one of the more important branches of journalism.

As to the second count—well, every man is entitled to his own opinion. There is, however, considerable room for doubt in the belief that Franklin D. is the only hope of salvation which this nation has on call. There can be but little quarrel with a great many of the President's projects; he is essentially an idealist, and from an intelligent idealist there is bound to come much that is good. On the other hand, an idealist must be advised of the practical methods required to carry out his reforms and, when much of that advice is no sounder than some that has been offered to, and acted upon, by President Roosevelt, the idealist sooner or later becomes something of a pain to many people—not for what he is, but for what he does. There is, also, the danger that the idealist, too long accustomed to seeing his brain-children foisted, willy-nilly, upon the public, will eventually conclude that any idea not conceived by himself can have but little merit. And from there on, in these trouble-ridden times, eventualities are purely matters of conjecture. And to believe that no other man is capable of filling the President's shoes so thoroughly as does Mr. Roosevelt is to believe that the Yosemite falls will one day reverse the direction of its flow. There never lived a man, be he statesman, doctor, mechanic, or hod-carrier, who was not eventually succeeded by a better man than he. And if Hitler leaves us anything of civilization, such will continue to be the case for some time to come.

Now, if you'll pardon us a moment, there's a bit of hornblowing to be done. It is rather unusual to devote editorial space to boosting the stock of the paper in which it appears, but in this case standard practice is going by the board. The Press this week has installed a new printing press for commercial work—job printing to you. It is larger, more modern than anything heretofore employed in our printing department, and is automatically fed besides. The new machine represents a considerable investment, which was not made without due appraisal of the field, and was purchased only after the owner of the paper thoroughly convinced herself that the field is good and bound to get better. In other words, the new equipment, while assuring greater efficiency in the office and better service to buyers of printing, represents concrete evidence of the paper's faith in the future of the community. Come in and see it—the press—some time.

High School Enrollment Shows Gain

Campbell Union High school continued its phenomenal rate of growth as 702 students thronged the halls on the opening day Monday, Sept. 16. This was 128 more than were enrolled on the first day last year.

By today the total had swelled to 718, and Willard H. Van Dyke, principal, forecast at least 750 within two weeks, since many students have not yet returned because they have been working in the harvest. With the mid-year increase attendance will probably reach the 825 mark before June 1941.

Four new teachers have been employed this year. They are Miss Barbara Davis, language; Miss Florence Smith, algebra and girls' physical education; Charles G. Simonds, science and English; and Kenneth Dwelley, agriculture and science.

Files Suit Against Southern Pacific

Salvatore Ciraulo of Campbell filed suit for $26,320 against the Southern Pacific Wednesday, for an accident that happened a year ago in the yard of the Barron-Gray cannery in San Jose.

He claims that when he was driving a "mighty midget driver" over a spur track on the cannery grounds, a switch engine was negligently backed into him, sending him to the hospital for six weeks, and leaving some injuries he claims will be permanent.

Local Family Hurt In Bayshore Crash Sunday

Injured in an auto crash at the Bayshore-Moffett crossing Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Vito Amato and their son Vince all of Campbell who were passengers in a car driven by another son, John G. Amato of Willow street.

The parents were quite severely bruised and lacerated, and Vince but slightly.

Highway Patrolmen Karl Bohnett and Ray Berry reported that Louis Barrello of San Francisco, driver of the other car, crossed the center lane on the highway and met the other machine head on. His wife who was with him was hurt but not seriously.

Sanitary District Officers Reelected

Incumbent members of the Campbell Sanitary district board and the assessor for the district were returned to office Monday in an election almost negligible in the number of votes cast.

Sixty-seven of the estimated fourteen hundred voters visited the polls and re-elected Ross Trowbridge, who has served as secretary, Charles De Selle and Dr. W. I. Merrill as directors, and G. E. Farley, assessor.

Homer H. Hyde Weds Idaho Girl Sunday, Sept. 15

Pledging their troth at a 7 o'clock ceremony, Miss Kathryn Mildred Ray and Homer Husted Hyde were wed Sunday, Sept. 15 at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Ray in Pocatello, Idaho.

Prior to the ceremony the lovely songs so associated with weddings, "Because" and "At Dawning" were sung.

A fan shaped trellis covered with white asters and greenery, with tall baskets of white chrysanthemums lighted by tall candelabra holding numerous white candles, made a lovely setting.

The charming bride, given into the keeping of her bridegroom by her father, was lovely in a gown of white georgette crepe, fashioned with a train. The long veil was held in place with a Juliette cap of pearls and she carried a bouquet of bouvardia and blue orchids.

Miss Margaret Ray, her sister's attendant, wore a pink net dress and her flowers were pink and white.

Don C. Brown, a Stanford friend, whose home is in Pocatello, was the groomsmen, and the wedding guests were seated by Robert Ray, a brother of the bride and Edward N. Roberts, Jr., also a Stanford friend.

The Rev. George S. Sloan of Billings, Montana, a former pastor of the Congregational church in Pocatello, returned to officiate at the ceremony.

Some hundred guests attended the wedding and reception that followed. Refreshments were served buffet style, the beautifully appointed bride's table bearing a tiered and daintily decorated wedding cake.

The just-weds motored away the same evening to Sun Valley, Idaho, for a short stay, and then were to visit two of the bride's brothers in Portland, completing their journey down the Redwood highway and are expected here Sunday.

On Tuesday Homer will register at Stanford for his second and final year in the graduate school of business. The new Mrs. Hyde is also a Stanford graduate and plans to continue some activities at the university.

The new home has already been arranged at 638 Columbia in Palo Alto where they will take up residence in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hyde parents of Homer Hyde, attended the wedding and returned to Campbell Wednesday.

Gas Lines Going Into Rural Area South of Town

Residents of Campbell area south west of town are soon to have gas available for their homes as the Pacific Gas and Electric company has a crew busily at work laying mains and laterals.

Starting at Kennedy avenue on the Santa Clara-Los Gatos highway, the pipes will be laid down to Sunnyoaks avenue, along that road to Virginia avenue, north on Virginia to Hazel, thence to San Tomas and up San Tomas to Souther's place. Two tap lines will run out on Elam, Crockett and Monroe roads to supply additional homes, making a total of 15,435 feet. Seventy-six services are to be run to houses. The cost of the completed work will run over $20,000.

Work of laying out the line was begun last week and over 1000 feet are finished and the entire project should be completed in 60 days.

Stewart Burgess of Campbell is in charge of the crew of 12 men of the company's general construction department.

The E. C. Merrill garage at the corner of Campbell and Dillon avenues was rented and is being used as a field office and storage place for trucks and equipment.

Grammar School Classes In Increase Over Last Year

Campbell schools are running true to form in their record for the past few years of annual gains in enrollment.

Many of the schools of the county have reported losses in attendance for their opening days, but very material increases are reported by superintendents here.

Supt. Ira Abbott announced an enrollment of 810 on Wednesday as contrasted with 714 in 1939, a gain of 96. Twenty six teachers are responsible for this small army.

Some rooms are full to overflowing and readjustments will be made to relieve some of the congestion.

The influx of new families into the school area, and especially the rapid growth of Beverly Place which although bordering Burbank is in the Campbell Union school district, has brought many new students into the classrooms. Additional "storage space" will have to be provided by next year.

The high school has experienced an even greater increase in numbers, due to similar reasons, and the added attraction of the wonderful new buildings, equipment and athletic facilities.

The adult education classes will be open for registration Monday evening, Sept. 30, at 7 o'clock. The majority of the classes will be held Mondays and Thursdays from 7 to 9 p. m., and will be determined by the wishes of those who register at the opening meeting.

Kiwanis Ladies' Night Enjoyable Affair of Tuesday

The Tuesday evening meeting of the Kiwanis club concluded the summer series of ladies' nights and was a happy ending.

President Herold Morton extended brief greetings and then left the program in the charge of Ira Abbott. Two solo numbers "In My Garden" (Isabel Firestone) and "Who'll Buy My Lavender" (Edward German), sung by Miss Martha Boyd, with Miss Edith Hughes accompanist, were much appreciated.

Henry Buell of the San Jose office of the P. G. & E., former lieutenant-governor, and who visits the Campbell club on many occasions, complimented the members on the verve and quality of their group singing with an inspiring leader like Mr. Klassen, and the use of local musical talent, stating that some clubs have little or no music. He also spoke of the high percentage of attendance which the club maintains, and the things it has and is doing for the youth of the community.

He presented Guy E. Farley with a pin in recognition of 14 years perfect attendance and Ira Abbott with one for eleven years.

He had brought out sound moving pictures in technicolor of Sierra playgrounds maintained by the P.G.&E. in connection with their dams and power plants in various parts of the mountains.

Wild life and fish are conserved and cultivated and all of their holdings are open to the public except such as the government has designated as preserves.

J. O. Leverton displayed a picture of a section of Campbell in which Sunsweet Plant No. 1 and the Campbell Cooperative Dehydrator is located and mentioned briefly the value to the town of these industries and the possibility of encouraging their further expansion.

Giant zinnias and asters in pastel shades decorated hall and tables.

The president announced that W. H. Van Dyke would be chairman for next meeting and that immediately after lunch the members would adjourn to the high school auditorium to witness a scientific demonstration of "Liquid Air Wonders," presented by Walter Everman.

This is a National Assemblies production, one of a series which the organization prepares for high school entertainment and education.

The first meeting of the Woman's Service club will be held Wednesday, Sept. 25 at the home of Mrs. G. E. Farley on Alice avenue, at 2:30 p. m. Acting as co-hostesses are Miss Eunice Reader, Mrs. J. C. Agostinho, Mrs. H. M. Shadle and Mrs. Bernice Saveker.

DUST BOWL CHALLENGERS

You've heard of the migrant Joads who, fleeing the Oklahoma dust bowl, sought a plot of earth in the Promised Land and failed.

Now it's time to hear about the dust bowlers of Oklahoma who refused to get blown away when the big winds churned up tons of earth across the Panhandle and buried their lands and homes under mantles of dust.

The other day when that state sought to peddle 80 tracts of dry, wind-whipped soil, officials were startled. Young farmers eagerly snatched up these cheap tracts of seemingly worthless land. Less disheartened than their elders, the young men were anxious to pit their brains and brawn against a hostile Nature with all the new found methods and weapons they had acquired at Panhandle college—the dust bowl's only center of higher learning, and one which specializes in training young farmers new and better ways of dry farming with all the weapons scientific experiment can devise.

These technical methods won't interest the general reader, but what may well interest him is the resourceful ambition of these young people, undismayed by hardships as severe as any which have ever struck those who till the soil. But the American farmer, it should be remembered, is not the visionless, deeply conservative person he so often is in other lands.

Here, he has challenged deserts and made them fertile. He has broken new trails in crop rotation, organized marketing cooperatives, availed himself of nationwide facilities to lengthen his selling season and eliminate intermediary profits to his benefit and the consumers. He has, briefly, never conceded that he could reach the end of his row.

Those young Oklahoma dust bowler seem convinced of that, too, as they prepare, aided by scientific methods, to turn dead land into good earth.

REMEMBER SEPTEMBER 26

Few are the place left on this war-scarred earth where people may vote on the men and issues of their choice without fear of the secret police and the prison camp.

Here in the United States we have an oasis of freedom, a place where a vote counts and the wishes of the people matter.

Let's use that right. Our use of it, in fact, is essential if representative government is to continue to grow and flourish.

Are you registered for the November 5 presidential election? If you're in doubt about your eligibility to vote, take a moment or two to check up on your status. If you're not registered, remember there's still time to attend to that important matter. September 26, Thursday, is the last date on which to square accounts with the registrar so you can join your millions of fellow Americans at the polls on November 5.

It's no small privilege the right to vote offers you. Don't neglect it! Remember the final closing date of registration and make sure that, come election day, you'll be part of democracy in action.

BEHIND THE FLAG

The Stars and Stripes are on view today as seldom before in the nation's peace time history. The red, white and blue of Old Glory proudly whips in the breeze from the rooftops of nearly every building. It flutters from the windshields of cars that pass you on the highway, and at dinner that night, when the journey's over, it reappears on the brooch worn by the woman sitting across from you at the table.

Why this should be so, is no mystery. This is a time when everyone is concerned with the safety of this nation, when there is unanimous agreement that the upbuilding of its armed might to ensure the safety, is the biggest, most critical job, confronting us. We want to defend this nation because we love it, and the flag is a symbol of that devotion. But what do we mean by "this nation?" What is it, exactly, that we are gladly spending billions to protect, and whose fate concerns us all?

Clearly, it is more than the land, more than the shores that are swept by two oceans, more than towering mountains, fertile valleys and great prairies. We are defending these, and something more. We are defending representative government and the liberties that government assures all citizens. Those are no trifling gifts. Ask the people of France, and of other conquered nations in Europe, and they can tell you what it means to be stripped of the right to think, speak, and live as free men.

Government by democracy is no perfect system. No such system has ever been devised. But government by democracy, unlike all others, gives to nations and their people the chance to improve, grow and progress, where alien isms chain life within the tight grip of rigid state control so that there is neither freedom to grow or progress, nor even hope of freedom.

Behind the flag, we draw our lines of defense to guard the freedom, the promise of ever-continuing progress, for which it stands!

DEFENSE IN THE WEST

East has at last met West. Long the orphan children of the nation as far as shipbuilding has been concerned, Pacific coast shipyards have at last won recognition from the East, and won it, we would say, with a boom.

Under a new appropriation bill signed the other day, a warship construction program totaling $537 million was awarded to Pacific coast yards for the building of 50 destroyers, 4 cruisers, and 2 submarines.

With more than half of this huge order for warships being undertaken in California, and with this state already producing some 60 per cent of the nation's military planes, the business of defense has emphatically come to mean business, jobs, and payrolls to California!

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

Bundists and Klansmen whooped it up with speeches and music in a joint little get together back east the other day. As a result, the Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan is going to get booted out, says the grand giant of the New Jersey klavern. A happy thought, but why stop? Why not boot out the Bundists, the kluxers, kleages, and klaverns, too? It's doubtful if America and the American public would be any the worse for it.

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

"Before Philadelphia," the Willkie Volunteers were good news copy — colorful, audacious and interesting (like their candidate), but not to be taken too seriously.

The old-timers expected that when the Republican National Convention actually got under way the "regulars" would take over and fight it out—and the Willkie Volunteers would become just a side feature to add a dash of novelty to party history.

The amateurs, however, upset the dope, stole the show and nominated their man. That was shock enough. But when Wendell Willkie confounded the GOP chieftains by insisting that his non-party, non-professional Volunteers be allowed to conduct an independent campaign, entirely separate from that of the regular Republican organization, old-line politicians were aghast, amused, or just confused, according to their temperament.

It was simply unprecedented! What could "amateurs" possibly hope to accomplish in a national campaign for the presidency?

The answer to that question is starting to come to light in most spectacular fashion—in thousands of clubs for Willkie Volunteers in the nation, in hundreds in California. And thus far, if the truth must be known, the freshman team has made the varsity look somewhat slow-starting and clumsy by comparison. The "frosh" are just romping all over the political gridiron. And if Mr. Willkie hoped, by his independent Willkie Volunteers, to put the spurs to the elephant, he has achieved his objective.

Behind the scenes, there's the fiercest kind of rivalry in California between the regular GOP organization and the energetic brash (but really efficient) Willkie Volunteers. It's almost as hot as the fight between Willkie and Roosevelt. And the Republican organization, even though the elephant may trumpet a bit at such unexpected goings-on will probably benefit from the competition.

In Northern California, the chairman of the Willkie Volunteers is Phelps S. Hunter of San Francisco, who boasts that "We will have a club in every community, and a unit in every precinct, within the next thirty days." There are already clubs in thirty northern counties, with more than 25,000 membership applications in circulation. And in Southern California a similar drive is under way, directed by Luther C. Anderson of Los Angeles.

The annual magazine luncheon of the Campbell Union High School P.-T. A. will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. F. A. Jacobson, on Hamilton avenue, Thursday afternoon, Sept. 26, at 12:45. Mrs. Frank Blair, magazine chairman, will be co-hostess, and anyone interested in the official P.-T. A. magazine is cordially invited. Reservations may be made by calling either Campbell 145 or 254-J before Wednesday, Sept. 25.

"We have no jobs to give out," says Hunter. "We are simply seeking volunteers, without regard to party, race, color or creed, who believe in Wendell Willkie — and are willing to crusade for a better America!"

If you haven't tasted Best Foods Real Mayonnaise before, why not make "Salad Celebrity Week" your time to get acquainted? You'll find it gives your family a new appetite for salads!

You see, Best Foods Real Mayonnaise is different from "Salad Dressing." It contains no starchy filler. It is all mayonnaise—real mayonnaise—and doesn't turn watery when you add milk or fruit juices.

And this Real Mayonnaise tastes even fresher than home-made, for it is made with our own "FRESH-PRESS" Salad Oil which we ourselves prepare fresh each day, as it is needed. Then, in our powerful double-whipper the ingredients are so completely blended that Real Mayonnaise, with all its home-made richness, is even lighter in texture than home-made, and has a light, zesty flavor, free from oily taste.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

California farmers have had so much "bad news" during recent months and years that it might be opportune to single out some of the sunnier aspects of the agricultural picture—and chase the gloom away, at least for one column!

The California livestock industry, for example, is in good financial position generally, according to J. A. McNaughton, general manager of the Los Angeles Union Stock yards. And while no predictions for the future can be made in such a period, the industry is hopeful that a stable market along present price levels can be maintained.

Reports Mr. McNaughton: "Livestock markets were in strong position at the close of August and prices showed gains over a year ago on all grades and classes. Improved business and industrial conditions naturally are accompanied by greater consumer buying power.

"Price gains are receiving greater publicity than is warranted, however. It should be pointed out, for instance, that while hog prices are the highest so far this year and represent substantial gains over the ruinously low prices earlier in the summer, hogs are still relatively low and pork prices to the consumers are still very reasonable.

"The same might be said of cattle and lamb values. Meat continues to be one of the most reasonable items in the family budget. The important factor is that live stock producers and feeders are now netting prices which represent fair profits, but by no line of reasoning can meat prices be said to be high."

California, according to all reports, is in excellent position insofar as dry range feed is concerned, despite a severe drouth in other important livestock areas. This state can take on large supplies of replacement cattle, with the main limiting factor being the cost of such replacements. And while there is ample financing available, financing agencies are advising caution in view of the relatively high prices now in effect.

In most of the range country, federal reports indicate, cattle are in good condition despite the drouth, but winter feed prospects are uncertain in view of shortage of water, dry feed and hay. Some forced liquidation of young stock as well as breeding animals is anticipated in large range areas, notably in Northern Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Southern Wyoming, Colorado and the Texas Panhandle. It is still too early, however, to determine the volume of such forced selling and its effect upon the stocker and feeder market.

for "Salad Celebrity Week"

Popular Richard Arlen

Handsome Star of Universal Productions

THROUGHOUT the town, food merchants are featuring "Salad Celebrity Week" and their stores are literally loaded with salad-time menu suggestions.

To commemorate the occasion, many movie celebrities were asked their favorite salads. Among them is Richard Arlen, starring in the new Universal production "Hot Steel," who says, "Good old chicken salad is what I go for—but I like it prepared this way—"

Here's his favorite recipe:

Favorite Chicken Salad

4 cups diced chicken
1 cup diced celery
2 sliced oranges, free from membrane
2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 to 1½ cups Best Foods real mayonnaise
5 cups finely shredded red cabbage
Pimiento strips
Watercress

Lightly toss together chicken, celery, oranges, seasonings and real mayonnaise. Arrange cabbage in salad bowl or on chop plate or platter. Heap the chicken mixture in the center and top with additional real mayonnaise. Garnish with pimiento strips and watercress. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

of brighter aspects of the California dairy situation, the United States Department of Agriculture is out with the announcement that California cows, during last year, again led those of all other states in per cow production of milk and butterfat. The average was 6,650 pounds of milk and 253 pounds of butterfat per cow.

California sheepmen, too, have something to be grateful for; they are going into the fall season with an abundance of dry feed and prospects so far for the fall lambing season are more favorable than a year ago. They will have lower costs than last year, when they were forced to buy hay and concentrates on account of the very dry season.

There are times when less production means more income, or at least more stable markets, and the California Walnut Growers association reports:

"California's 1940 walnut crop is now expected to be about 47,000 tons, which fortunately is some 6,000 tons less than was produced last season. Growing conditions have been good all season to date. Therefore, the size and quality of the nuts is expected to be quite good and possibly above average unless a severe heat wave is experienced within the next few weeks."

The California Almond Growers exchange likewise predicts a short crop, as compared with 1939, stating that "The California almond crop this season will equal approximately 50 per cent that of last year. The almonds in general will be large and well-developed, however, by reason of abundant rainfall."
